

Kahne Krause, Vice President, Dimensional Fund Advisors

Kahne has been with Dimensional for twelve years. In that time she worked closely with RIAs in the Strategic Relationship Group, which partnered with the largest US-based firms. In this role, Kahne worked with clients to address their most significant issues from developing investment solutions to thinking through strategic business initiatives. Most recently Kahne became the Head of Dimensional's Advisor Communities initiative, which oversees more than 80 groups and forums globally ranging from traditional advisor study groups to executive forums and specialized groups focused on common interests – such as Women in Wealth and Sustainable Investing.

Prior to joining Dimensional in 2007, Kahne was a principal audio/video engineer at Walt Disney Imagineering, where she worked on the design and installation of theme park attractions at Disney parks worldwide. Kahne holds an MBA from the Anderson School of Management at UCLA and a bachelor's degree in aeronautical and astronautical engineering from Purdue University. She is a CFA Charterholder.
